I'm not robot

reCAPTCHA

Continue

I'm not robot

reCAPTCHA

Continue

Big fish games app

Our editors independently research, test and recommend the best products and services; you can find out more about our review process here. We may receive commissions for purchases from our chosen links. Best for detailed maps: Fishidy Offers maps of more than 20,000 freshwater and 180 saltwater waterways across America. Best Fish Finder Compatible: Deeper Smart Sonar Lets you view invaluable information about water depth, temperature, bottom topography, fish location, and more. Best for planning your trip: Fishing and hunting thessaloniki time Use it to determine the best time to fish at a specific location, which the app indicates using manual input or automatic GPS. Best for saltwater fishermen: Pro Angler Use real-time app weather forecasts, tidal tables and solunar data to make the most of fishing time. Best for Flying Fishermen: The Orvis Fly Fishing App includes many podcasts by fly fishing author Tom Rosenbauer, with more added each week. Best for competition anglers: iAngler tournament When participating in registered tournaments, use the app to record catch data while you are still on the water. Best for social networks: Fishbrain Interactive fishing maps introduce you to new fishing spots and allow you to look at the exact catch positions of other anglers. 01 out of 07 Available for iOS and Android, the map-based fishidy fishing app is a great help to anglers of all levels of experience. It offers maps of more than 20,000 freshwater and 180 saltwater waterways across the Americas, each accompanied by fishing site markings and information on seasonal fish movements and catch patterns. Real-time activity reports to anglers ensure you never miss an action. The app also works as a log, allowing you to record and share your catches with other anglers. When you do this, time variables are recorded automatically. You can also store secret fishing spots privately or decide to share them with a few selected friends. Reviewers praise the app for its simple interface and the effectiveness of eliminating guesswork to get the most time on the water. Free and premium versions are available. Advantages of premium upgrades include access to GPS coordinates detailing proven fishing hotspots; and detailed layers of maps that provide information on factors such as underwater structure and bottom composition. 02 out of 07 The free Deeper Smart Sonar app is designed to be used in collaboration with Deeper's popular fish finder. Displays live data transmitted by the probe, allowing you to view invaluable information about water depth, temperature, bottom topography, fish location, and more directly on your smartphone screen. There are several ways to customize the app. You can set different fish and depth alarms, change the appearance of the screen, and between narrow or wide beam scanners. There are specific ways to fish on land, boat and ice. The latter allows you to monitor your bait underwater and mark ice holes; Dok Dok land mode allows you to create maps for the bathing lake. Best of all, the app can also be used without pliers. Highlights include the solunar calendar and the functionality of the weather forecast (useful when planning your next trip); Downloadable maps that you can use to mark your favorite places offline. Use the notes function to record catches, and camera mode to share photos of fish with fellow anglers. 03 out of 07 Courtesy fishing & hunting Solunar Time Fishing & Hunting Solunar Time uses a solunar theory to accurately predict the movement and feeding activity of all species of fish and wildlife. Solunar's theory is the hypothesis that animals and fish move towards the location of the moon and sun relative to their bodies. You can use it to determine the best time to fish at a specific location, which the app indicates using manual input or automatic GPS. You can save your favorite fishing spots to access solunar forecasts with a click of a finger. These forecasts show major and smaller feeding periods or activities for certain fish species. You can also see the moon phases, as well as moonlight, moonlight, sunrise and sunset. Upgrading the app gives saltwater fishermen the ability to watch tidal maps. Since weather is also a factor in the behavior of animals and fish, the app even offers current weather information and a five-day forecast. Free and Pro versions are available. 04 of the 07 Pro Angler app acts as a one-stop shop that offers all the information you need to improve your saltwater fishing experience. This includes GPS coordinates for more than 7,500 fishing hotspots located throughout the coastal United States; and more than 1,000 useful services ranging from local bait shops to public launches and weigh-ins. Weekly reports on the veteran captain's location make sure you're up to date on the latest on the sediment. Use real-time weather forecasts, tides tables, and solunar data to make the most of fishing time. The ID guide provides a list of tried-and-tested fishing techniques for 220 types of salt water. The list of easy-to-navigate state and federal regulations is another highlight, while bonus features include seafood recipes, a shared catch log, and license information. A paid live action upgrade to the free version of the app is available. Continue to 5 out of 7 below. 05 out of 07 Available for free only for iOS devices, the Orvis Fly Fishing app is a favorite among tech-savvy fishermen. Master the art of creating your own flies using the app's guide for the top 100 trout flies, which can be searched by name and type. Animations tying knots are also practical; as well as hours of instructional casting videos with the director of Orvis' fly fishing schools. The searchable fly fishing glossary ensures that it is always accurate what the professionals are talking about. The app also includes many podcasts by fly fishing author Tom Rosenbauer, with more added each week. You can save your favorite and listen to them anywhere. Perhaps most useful of all, the app contains fishing reports for more than 200 of the best fly fishing spots in North America, Central America, South America and the United Kingdom. Each of them provides real-time updates directly to your smartphone. 06 out of 07 Courtesy of iAngler tournament A premium app for competitive anglers, the iAngler Tournament is designed to take care of the practical side of tourney fishing so you can focus on catching the winning fish. When participating in registered tournaments, use the app to record catch data while you are still on the water. Compare your biggest fish statistics with those of your fellow competitors by tracking the live tournament leaderboard in the app. Other useful features include the ability to view lists of available tournaments in your area; and to register for those interested in you. The app also sends newsletters about local tournament activities. After signing up for the event, use the app to keep an eye on the weather forecast and tide tables for the tournament location. The iAngler tournament can also be used as a useful data collection tool for marine researchers. 07 out of 07 With more than 10 million global users and nearly 10 million reported catches, Fishbrain is the largest social network for anglers - and the best way to brag about your record catch or commissate about the one that escaped. Use it to record catches and view statistical reports about your historical performance. Interactive fishing maps introduce you to new fishing spots and allow you to view the exact catch positions of other anglers. You can also connect with these anglers to find new fishing friends or share tips. Other practical features include a fishing forecast showing the best fishing time for more than 130 specific species, including bass, trout and carp. The app uses actual catch data to recommend the most effective placement of live baits for each of them. Fishbrain is available in free and premium versions (for a monthly fee). Updated november 3, 2020 whether you're using mac for work or just for personal projects, you've probably wondered how to improve your productivity. There are only so many hours of the day, and so much mental stamina you can jump before it runs out. There are dozens of tricks you can use to improve your own productivity and appearance, but if you're looking for a more objective, comprehensive fix, it's best to equip your Mac with productivity apps designed to help you do more in less time. This lifehack exclusive list has some of the best productivity apps to help you feel less tired, improve your energy and ultimately help you do more every day. What makes the best productivity apps? In addition to productivity advice, there are also dozens of for productivity. With this in mind, here are some of the fundamental aspects of the ideal productivity applications that formed this list. Unobtrusive – you want a productivity app that will weave seamlessly workflow and does not cause disruption. From using the app to the overall screen, this shouldn't cause any interruptions. Good interface – Again, you want to be able to easily use these applications and have them used. The easier you get around these apps, the better. Fair prices - Many of them have free trials that give you a good chance to test before you buy. If you choose to pay for it, monthly pricing plans should be reasonable for what you get. 1. Todoist Available for all iOS devices, Todoist is a download and messaging app that can keep you on top of all your projects – personal and professional. Its best features are free to use, including browser extensions, task creation, and interactive boards that you can use to organize all your notes. If you want to pay an optional annual fee of $29, you can get even more advanced features such as backups and automatic reminders. Even with the free version, you'll stay far more organized. Download: Todoist2. 1PasswordYou may not realize this, but you'll probably spend a ton of time reminding you of your passwords, especially if and when you forget one on an app you use regularly.1Password is a Mac app that saves and remembers all your passwords for you in one place, so you can access all your favorite websites with one click. You'll save time while keeping all your accounts. Personal plan is $2.99 a month. Download: 1Password3. BearBear is a unique type of note-taking app designed to make it easier for Mac users to take notes in progress. Plus, you can create work lists, give yourself reminders, and describe concepts for future brainstorming sessions. It comes with many different inline styles so you can customize your notes to your personal preferences and remember the context in which you wrote them. The basic version is free, with a $14.99-a-year version available. Download: Bear4. HazelHazel by noodlesoft is an automated organizational tool designed for Mac to help you automatically organize your files based on any custom rules you want to create. For example, you can set it to move intact items from one folder to another folder labeled with an action item if they are not addressed within a week. This can save you hours of organization over several weeks. One license is apartment $32.Download: noodlesoft5. AlfredAlfred is an all-in-one app designed to save you time with Mac shortcuts and handy custom actions. You can use it in different ways. For example, you can access Alfred's memory with the Clipboard so that you don't copy or paste the same material over and over again, or set up custom workflows to automate some of your most prominent tasks. It's paid for with more price points based on the features you want. Download: Alfred6. TextExpanderTextExpander does exactly what the name suggests; allows you to type a short snippet of text and automatically expand that text. For example, you can create custom custom which allows you to conjure up an entire paragraph that you type repeatedly by simply typing a unique abbreviation. Once you get used to your custom combinations, you'll spare your fingers from typing thousands of words. The individual account is $3.33 per month. Download: TextExpander7. Backblaze If you've ever experienced a collision or theft of your Mac, you know how much system restore can cost you. You'll spend hours replacing files you've lost and losing thousands of files that are irreplaceable. Backblaze is an automated, inexpensive way to back up your entire Mac for just $5 a month. Download: Backblaze8. The MaestroKeyboard Maestro keyboard is an older app that still has the power to make your life easier. Additionally, you can automate any number of tasks based on a specific trigger (such as a hotkey combination or events like connecting to a wireless network). A single license costs just $36.Download: Keyboard Maestro9. SnagitThere are many apps for a good screen capture app, whether you're trying to illustrate a technical problem you have or just want to make an interesting meme. Snagit makes it easy, with built-in editing for pictures and videos. One license covers two machines and costs $49.95.Download: TechSmith/Snagit10. BartenderBartender is a cleverly named app that helps you clean and organize all menu icons. You can also quickly access them using keystroke shortcuts. If you're like most Mac users, those icons quickly roll in and stop working efficiently. It is free to try for 4 weeks, after which you will need a $15 license. Download: Bartender11. OtterOtter is a Mac app for note taker that hates typing. It's an intelligent voice recognition system and note recognition apps to help you transcribe your conversations, take notes during meetings, and even take contextual notes for yourself in your time. Best of all, it's free to start! Download: Otter12. FluxDo often feel tired during the day or feel unable to sleep after a day of staring at your computer? This could be due to the unnatural blue light radiating from your Mac.Flux naturally adjusts your light-emitting display that corresponds to the time of day, so you can sleep better and feel less tired. It's also free! Download: Stream 13. PDFpenAWhere you regularly deal with PDFs, you'll probably want some kind of tool that can help you tag these PDFs however you want. Without a dedicated app like PDFpen, it can be difficult. PDFpen allows you to edit PDFs in almost any conceivable way, giving you more energy and saving you time. One license is $74.95.Download: Smile Software/PDFpen14. OmniFocusOmniFocus is all about managing tasks. It has a clean interface that allows you to flag tasks, schedule events, and even automate specific features. This is one of the most so there are few learning curves to get out of it the most. The standard license is while the pro version is $79.99.Download: OmniFocus15. FranzIt is tedious for switching between dozens of different chat programs like Facebook Messenger, Slack and WhatsApp, whenever you want to talk to another contact. Franz's solution is simple; offer access to all these applications in one handy package. And best of all, it's a completely open source. Download: Franz16. MindNode If you're a type of brainstorming, you need an app like MindNode to help you organize your thoughts effectively. There are dozens of tools you can use to link ideas on a mind map or simply take notes for a future reference. The basic app is free, and in-app purchases are available. Download: MindNode17. Focus Internet is a wonderful thing, but it can be terribly distracting. And if you're like most of us, you've stopped working on a project because of some attention-attracting site or bad online habits. That's where focus comes in. This app allows you to block the worst offenders with customized timely restrictions and other limitations, so you can focus on the task at hand. One license is $19.99.Download: Focus18. CleanMyMacChances are, your Mac isn't working as fast as it could, thanks to gigabytes of clutter and unnecessary files on your system. CleanMyMac helps you scan your Mac, monitor its health and eventually clean it up – so you can handle all your tasks that are extra a little faster. One license is $39.95.Download: CleanMyMac19. A grammatical spelling error or a grammatical error can cost you big time. This could be the source of poorer ratings on big paper, or jeopardize your credibility in the workplace. Fortunately, Grammarly can help you. This Mac-integrated writing assistant tracks all your live writing and corrections, so you're alerted to your potential errors before they become permanent. The free version exists, but the premium version will cost you between $11 and $30 per month, depending on how you pay. Download: GrammarlyFocus To DoFocus is one of the best productivity apps for your iPhone. It even has a desktop client that you can easily connect to. The app is built around two things: Pomodoro techniques and task management. He achieves these things with incredible balance. All you have to do is create a task and then set a timer within the app itself. There is also great flexibility with pomodoro technique. You can choose whether to take a 5-minute break, take a longer one, or even skip it. On the task management side, you can also create recurring tasks, reminders, and prioritize tasks as well. Download: Focus on the productivity app's bottom line should help you squeeze more productive hours out of each day, but these aren't the only tools that will have to help you find success. Make time to learn and experiment with all the life hackers who can more productive. By improving your device, as well as your looks and focus, you will be able to do much more in one day and he does it better. More to increase productivity Pictured: Patrick Ward via unsplash.com unsplash